FIRST
NATIONAL BANK OF PORTLAND.
SAVINGS DEPARTMENT!

THIS BANK has established in connection with its general Banking business a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT, and will allow interest on coin deposits made in accordance with the conditions adopted by this Bank.

In establishing a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT this Banking Association has in view the benefits to accrue to a class of persons having small sums to loan, by providing a safe place of deposit, ample security and fair rate of interest, as well as to aggregate and bring into use idle capital.

For the safety of deposits in this Bank, are pledged its entire capital and resources, and also the personal liability of its Directors and Stockholders, as provided by Section 12 of the National Currency Act, approved June 3d, 1864, a greater security than that given by ordinary Savings Banks. Printed copies of the conditions upon which deposits are received, may be had upon application to the Bank.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO NOVEMBER 8

Fire at Helena

HELENA, Nov. 7.—A fire broke out at 2 P. M. to-day in the Varieties Theatre. The whole building was in flames when discovered. Nothing was saved. The fire spread across the street and consumed seven dwellings. Total loss, $[illegible],000. The wind was blowing a gale, fortunately, towards the hill, and the town was saved.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The steamer City of Brussels arrived from Queenstown last night. The Pereire arrived from Brest this morning.

Secretary Boutwell authorizes the Sun to say that he has not sent any agent to Europe about a loan, or authorized any one to act for him. He has always been in favor of funding the debt at a lower rate of interest and hopes some time to get down to four and a half per cent.

The Erie Railway advertises for 800 men to fill places of the striking brakemen. It is reported that a large number of men, including some firemen of Jersey City and a crowd of New York roughs, have been employed to go to Port Jarvis, to assist in moving freight cars accumulated there, and to fight the brakemen if they interfere.

A. M. Binninger & Co., wine merchants, have suspended payment. Their assets are said to exceed their liabilities, but they decided to suspend rather than borrow money at high rates.

The Gold Exchange Bank having abolished its banking departments, is negotiating with the Bank of New York to provide a place of deposit for clearing balances. Should the arrangement be satisfactory, the Bank will probably at once recommence clearing.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The new steamship Hanover from Bremen, brought 200 emigrants. Fifty go to Texas; the remainder will mostly settle in Louisiana.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Times says intelligence was received at a late hour last night from reliable sources, of a Cuban expedition being now in progress in this city, Philadelphia and Baltimore. We also learn that one or two very fast steamers have been purchased by parties unknown. They will, at no early date, if not stopped, attempt to pursue a course similar to that marked out for the steamer Cuba.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—General Wool was not quite so comfortable last night as he had been during the preceding forty-eight hours. He takes scarcely any nourishment and is very weak.

A World special from Concord, New Hampshire, says the Constabulary will be submitted to a popular vote to-morrow. The religious element favors it, but only one newspaper in the State favors it. The vote will be light. The cities will go strong against the law, but if the country turns out, it will be carried, and according to a provision by the last Legislature, be put into immediate effect.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A Port Jarvis special says Gould and Rucker are here. They are not employing any of the old brakemen. The yards here are full of freight and but little is going out.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The home game of base ball was played between the Atlantics and Eckfords to-day, the Atlantics winning the championship. Score, 16 to 12. The weather was very cold and wintry, but the playing was first rate.

At the Pigeon shooting match between John Taylor, champion of the United States, and Ira Payne, of New York, to-day, the latter won.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Ex-Representative M. F. Conway, of Kansas, is favorably mentioned for Circuit Judge under the bill for a new Judicial District including Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

The bonds purchased by Secretary Boutwell to November 1st, amount to 17,844,500. He purchased on account of the Sinking Fund 45,006,000 as a special purchase, subject to the future action of Congress.

The Supreme Court to-day in a case from the Supreme Court of Alabama, held that a State has power to tax sales of all goods imported from different States, provided such tax be general in its character, applying as well to similar productions of the State laying the tax.

Secretary Robeson has announced the death of Rear-Admiral Stewart in a general order and directs the usual honors to his memory.

The Late Steamboat Disaster.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—Capt. Shaw was examined to-day by the Stonewall Investigating Committee. He said that when he reached the wreck on the day following the fire, both wheelhouses were standing. He thought from the position of things, many persons could have remained on the boat some time after the fire broke out. To the question whether he being in Captain Washington's situation on the night of the fire he would have stopped his boat, he replied that he was present to state facts and not to give opinions. He would, however, give an opinion outside of the committee room.

Inundation in Yucatan.

MERIDA, YUCATAN, Oct. 26.—A disastrous inundation happened in this vicinity, causing heavy loss of property and a number of lives. The town of Multunipus was completely destroyed. The cemetery was washed away and many corpses and skeletons were found floating in the water. The roads of the country are impassable on account of heavy rocks lodging in the highway by the current of the flood. At last accounts it was decreasing.

The Brakemen's Strike.

ERIE, PA., Nov. 8.—The brakemen on a strike at Port Jarvis, were paid off this morning to the number of 800. The company say they can get all the men they want. The strikers sent a committee to confer with the Western Division, and all resolved not to interfere with the passenger trains or the company's property.

New England Dispatches.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Dr. E. Gilchrist, who was for several years Surgeon in the Navy, died at the Chelsea naval hospital on Saturday.

CONCORD, Nov. 8.—The burglars who robbed the National Bank at Wolfboro, secured $25,000 in available funds.

BURLINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Lake House and Noyes' block were totally destroyed by fire this morning. One man was fatally, and nine others, more or less, were injured by falling walls. The employes of the hotel lost all their clothing. Total loss, $75,000—mostly insured.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Father Hyacinthe, in reply to an invitation, says he will visit Boston in December if possible, and hopes, after his return to Europe again, to visit the United States.

CONCORD, Nov. 8.—Pike Hampton the murderer, is to be executed to-morrow. He made a full confession.

Small Pox Among Montana Indians.

FORT BENTON, Montana, Nov. 8.—A special messenger to Gen. Sully, Indian Superintendent, reports deaths among the Grosventre Indians by small pox to the number of 500, or half the entire tribe. They are committing suicide by blowing their brains out with revolvers. The whites have taken the disease in the form of light varioloid, but there are fatal cases. The dead Indians strew the road from the Forks to Mill river. They demand that the Superintendents act as mediators with the Great Spirit and stop the disease.

Mississippi Politics.

JACKSON, Nov. 8.—The canvass between Judge Dent and Gen. Alcorn has closed temporarily by mutual consent. Dent goes to Washington on professional business and Alcorn goes home to attend to private business.

Gen. Ames to-day assigned forty five officers of the army to duty as Inspectors of registration in various counties of Mississippi.

The Avondale Fund.

SCRANTON, Nov. 8.—H. Gaylor, Treasurer of the Avondale relief fund acknowledges receipts to November 6th, of $81,239, of which nearly $60,000 was paid to the widows and orphans, and the balance is securely invested for their benefit.

Southern Railroad Matters.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 8.—The semi-annual meeting of the association of General Freight Agents will be held here on Wednesday and Thursday. Important questions touching transportation will be discussed and a tariff of freights adopted.

About twenty emigrants on their way from Virginia to Missouri reached here this morning nearly famished. A child died of disease and hunger.

"First Spike" in Mobile.

MOBILE, Nov. 8.—Track laying on the Mobile and New Orleans Railroad commences to-day. The ceremony of driving the first spike was performed by Col. Mann, proprietor of the Register, who made a pertinent speech. He said he regarded it as not merely the inauguration of the one hundred and thirty eight miles of road from Mobile to New Orleans, but of the great Southern Pacific route which this company, headed by such men as Ames, Sprague, and others, intended to build.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Campbell, residing on Fifth avenue, was brutally murdered by her husband some time last night. The murderer surrendered himself to the Mayor this morning, and stated that she died from falling down stairs. The body of the woman was found covered with wounds and she had evidently been beaten to death with a poker.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church meets here on Wednesday to settle the question of uniting the several branches of the church.

From Cuba

HAVANA, Nov. 8.—Intelligence from the interior towns says cholera prevails at Puerto Principe. Yellow fever has also appeared.

A steamer arrived to-day from Spain with a battalion of troops.

A "Mill" Spoiled.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8.—The McCoole Allen mill is off owing to the stake-holder embroglio. Allen declines to fight with the stakes held by a St. Louis man. McCoole will fight on no other condition, though several are proposed.

Funeral of Admiral Stewart.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—The funeral of Admiral Stewart takes place Wednesday afternoon. Gen. Prescott has ordered out the first division as an escort. The naval officer will take part.

Free Trade at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—The free trade meeting at the mercantile library hall to-night was well attended. A number of addresses were delivered, and step taken to form a free trade league.

Honor to Peabody's Memory in England.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—By order of the Queen funeral services are to be held over the remains of Geo. Peabody at Westminster Abbey on Friday.

Filibusters at New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Capt. Harris, late commander of the steamer Lillian, which had Colcories's expedition on board, arrived at New York yesterday from Nassau, where the vessel was seized. The officers of the privateer Hornet were brought to Brooklyn yesterday in charge of Marshal Foote of North Carolina, and turned over to Marshal Dalton, who held them in the sum of 10,000 each to answer before the United States Circuit Court.

Father Hyacinthe.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The following is Father Hyacinthe's letter to the Boston clergymen: "I am very sensible of the high honor paid me in the greeting from the clergy whom you represent. I am touched by your expressions of christian sympathy and affection. I am a Catholic and hope to remain one. I have not broken with the church, but its abuses. I recognize true Christians in all Protestant bodies, for I believe that the true church, embracing all who hold Christ as their head, is far wider than any earthly organization. My purpose in coming to America is to escape from excitement and rest a little. I shall return to Europe, but hope again to visit this country. I shall visit Boston in November if possible, and then should be glad to see those whom you represent, to explain more fully my position. The future is dark and uncertain, but I shall obey my conscience to the end. Greet in my name with christian salutation those in whose name you greet me."

SANSCRIT RESEARCHES IN INDIA.—An English paper says that while the Government of India is associated with the Asiatic Society in obtaining lists of Sanscrit manuscript in native libraries existing in the Bengal presidency, and engaged generally in unearthing Sanscrit works, the Government of Ceylon has followed the example of India in directing a search to be made throughout the island for ancient manuscripts. Great discoveries are expected in Pali and Buddhist literature and the Buddhist pansalas are to be ransacked, and a catalogue compiled by James Alwis, a competent editor. It is generally believed that in spite of the former destruction of Cingalese literature recorded in the Mahawansa, many manuscripts of great antiquity are still to be found in the outlying districts of Kandy and the northwestern provinces. The copy of an ancient Cingalese manuscript containing the laws of the Buddhist priesthood, and the history of the relics of Buddha, was lately discovered, and may be taken as a sample of similar treasures which investigation will, it is believe, disclose.

With regard to Bengal researches, the Philological Committee of the Asiatic Society have appointed an efficient pundit for the purpose of identifying Sanscrit works, and the Rev. J. Long and Baboo Rajendralala Mettra have agreed to make frequent tours in search of manuscript as Dr Buhler does in the Bombay Presidency.

Iron Ships

The discussion of the causes which have led to a decline of shipbuilding in America has called public attention to facts connected with the commercial and industrial progress of the world which were new even to many of our public men. The great central fact of the time in relation to shipbuilding is that iron is taking the place of wood in marine architecture and that no successful ship yards are now turning out wooden ships. A correspondent of the New York Times writing from Liverpool states that the English yards where wooden vessels have been constructed heretofore have nearly all been abandoned and that shipbuilding has been almost wholly transferred to points where iron and coal can be most cheaply obtained. According to his statements the great depreciation in the value of wood built ships which has been brought about by the extensive use of iron in shipbuilding, fully explains the reason why the building of wooden ships has ceased to be a profitable industry in the United States. The plain and simple truth is, that wooden ships are no longer worth the money which it takes to construct them, even if their cost in the United States could be reduced to the prices which ruled before the war, and during the years in which American shipbuilding made its greatest progress. It is this circumstance which makes the outlook so gloomy for the builders of wooden ships, and which makes it almost certain that the policy of trying to reduce the cost of American ships down to the old standard, by allowing drawback on the materials used in the construction of vessels will fail to accomplish the great end which the friends of American navigation desire. It would, no doubt, be a great boon to the builders of vessels for the coastwise trade but as they already have absolute protection against foreign competition in the laws which prohibit foreign vessels from engaging in our coasting trade, it is not easy to see why their taxes and duties should be remitted. A Congressional Committee has been inquiring into this subject of late, and many and very diverse opinions have been given as to the causes of the decline of American shipbuilding. The internal and external taxes on materials, the evils of a depreciated currency, and other similar disadvantages have been urged as causes of this decline and remedies various in their character have been proposed to bring the industry up again. But it is plain that neither tariff, taxes nor currency are responsible for the diminished value of a new wood-built ship at the present time as compared with the value of a similar ship in 1850, and that diminished value cannot be restored by the abatement in the duties which the builders desire. That means may bring prices down to the prices of 1850, but it will not enable the builders of the United States to compete with the British builders of iron ships in the open markets of the world. The truth is, Great Britain has, at present, a great advantage over this country in building iron ships, an advantage she did not possess in the days of wooden shipbuilding. Then her materials were remote from her ship yards, while in our country materials and labor were contiguous. Now, her materials and her labor, both of which are cheap and abundant, are brought together, and it may be doubted whether we shall soon be able to compete with her in this industry, under the new order of things.

Rear Admiral Stewart

By the death of Rear Admiral Charles Stewart the country loses one of its oldest and most gallant naval officers. He was one of those intrepid spirits who gave the American navy such world-wide renown during the last war with Great Britain, and his services date from a time anterior to the beginning of the present century.

He was born in Philadelphia in July, 1778, and at the time of his death was therefore in his ninety-second year. In March, 1798, he entered the navy as a lieutenant. In 1800 he was appointed to the command of the schooner Experiment of twelve guns. During the short war with France he captured two armed [illegible] after a sharp conflict in both cases. In 1802 he was appointed a lieutenant in the frigate Constellation, which was employed in the blockade of Tripoli. In 1804 as commander of the brig Siren, he participated in the naval operations against that piratical nation, and co-operated with Decatur in destroying the frigate Philadelphia in the harbor. When peace was concluded with Tripoli he returned to the United States in command of the Constellation. The next year after the breaking out of the war with England he was placed in command of the frigate Constitution, as the Constellation was then blockaded at Norfolk by a British squadron. Capt Stewart took many prizes, but his greatest achievement was the capture of two vessels, the Cyane of thirty-four guns and the Levant of twenty-one guns, in the same action. The battle was fought at night, and was one of the most spirited contests of the war. From 1816 to 1820 Commodore Stewart commanded a squadron in the Mediterranean, and from 1821 to 1824 commanded in the Pacific. From 1830 to 1857 he performed various duties connected with naval affairs, and about ten years ago, owing to his advanced age, he was placed on the retired list of the navy. The rank of Rear Admiral was conferred on him a few years ago. For some time past he has resided upon his estate at Bordentown, New Jersey, and though greatly advanced in years he retained his faculties of mind and body to a remarkable degree. The Navy Department has ordered that the usual respect be paid to his memory.

"Smarty"

The Herald prints the following, which we transfer to our columns for the purpose of showing its fallacy and proving its author a great [illegible] —

> The telegrams received by the Associated Press at Portland are identical, except as to the matter marked "special." The words are taken off the wires and written with a metallic point on prepared paper, three exact copies being made at once. One sheet is retained, and one each sent to the morning papers. In Sunday's dispatch occurred the following: "In Wisconsin the Republicans gain in the Senate and lose in the Assembly. The Republican majority in the State is below 850." This was altered in the OREGONIAN office to read as follows: "In Wisconsin the Republicans gain in the Senate and lose in the Assembly. The Republican majority in the State is not less than 8,500." Extended comment on this fraud is unnecessary. Garbling dispatches in this manner is not better than forgery.

The Herald on Sunday printed this dispatch as follows: "The Republican majority in the State (Wisconsin) is less than 850." It now says the dispatch should read, "The Republican majority is below 850." The meaning is the same in both cases but comparison shows that this paper has changed the wording of the very dispatch which it censures us for altering.

We have no hesitancy in admitting that we [illegible] case we supplied the missing figure and read 8,500 instead of 850, because we knew from former telegrams that the Republican majority was somewhere near the former figure and could not be so small as the latter. Thus a telegram from Milwaukee dated November [illegible] Chicago November 4th said: "The average Republican majority in Wisconsin is [illegible]." This was two days after the election when the result must have been very well known. The telegram which is giving the Herald so much anxiety was but one day later and as reported here was obviously incorrect. In other words a cipher fell out during its transmission which we supplied just as we often correct their palpable errors in their dispatches. The very same dispatch says that the Republicans gain in the Senate which would be grossly improbable if not impossible had their majority in the State been reduced from the large figure of last year to less than 850. The "smarty" of the Herald who has not intelligence enough to arrange the telegraphic dispatches in such a way as to make them fit for publication often commits amusing blunders. For instance, not long ago he located North San Juan in "Washington Territory." Again a few days since when the telegraph reported that Kalbfleisch (Dem) was elected Mayor of Brooklyn he had the despatch printed as if Kalbfleisch were the name of the place at which it was dated. The despatch was a little entangled and he had not judgment enough to straighten it out. Again in the Herald of yesterday the following ridiculous jumble appears:

> NEW YORK, Nov 6 — George Peabody Russell, nephew of the late George Peabody, sailed for Liverpool to-day. He goes to bring the remains for burial.
> DANVERS, Mass, Nov 6 — Governor Hoffman will preside at the unveiling of the Vanderbilt bronze statue, on Thursday next.

This is the manner in which the dispatch was reported, but the error in it is obvious and the same was duly corrected before it appeared in the OREGONIAN. The meaning of it is that George Peabody's remains are to be brought to Danvers, (Mass) for burial this being the place where he was born. The announcement relative to Gov Hoffman is a separate and independent item. Everybody but such loons as the editor of the Herald knows that Vanderbilt's statue has not been erected at Danvers, Massachusetts. The date, "Nov 6" following the word "Danvers" was no doubt interpolated by a news editor of some California paper in which the dispatch was printed before it came here, the said news editor being an ignorant dummy like the editor of the Herald. We cite these instances to show that it is the business of an editor to correct such obvious errors as creep into the telegraphic dispatches during their transmission, and this is just what we have done in the case of this announcement relative to the Wisconsin election.

When the overland mail arrives bringing full returns of the Wisconsin election, we will take good care to thrust the same under the nose of this "smarty," and give him another lesson on the hazard he incurs in accusing us of "fraud" and "garbling" the dispatches.

In General.

Secretary Boutwell authorizes a denial of the statement that he has sent an agent to Europe to negotiate a four per cent loan. Such a denial was hardly necessary. We would do well to bring our six per cent bonds up to par before talking seriously about hunting up somebody to lend us money at four per cent.

For a week or so we have not heard much of the doings of the laboring lawyers, Chapman, Kelly, Thayer and Gardner. Can it be possible that they are growing careless and remiss? Are those battered and furrowed sons of toil "going back on" the cause? If they do the condition of the laboring classes will be deplorable indeed!

There seems to be a truce to the war between Beriah and Ben Hayden which raged so fiercely not long ago. Wonder how they have settled it? Not by mutual concessions and compliments, surely for Beriah is too [illegible] and resentful for that, and Ben, according to all traditions is a man whom soft soap has not the least effect upon.

The Herald, alluding to the project of introducing Chinese labor in Louisiana, says: "We don't want any class of human beings in America who will work for fourteen cents a day and sell their freedom for five years." Well then, why don't you pitch into the Southern planters, good Democrats all, who are introducing this system? Score them well! Make the fur fly! Read them out of the party!

Koopmanschap says he does not intend to bring the Chinese laborers designed for the South through San Francisco. He says that this plan would not be practicable for like other sensible workingmen, they would be likely to stop where the highest wages can be had. The track of their immigration will be across the Indian Ocean, through the Suez Canal, and across the Atlantic to New Orleans.

Our Democratic papers which were cast down by the recent defeat of their party in so many great States found a crumb of comfort in the report that in a special election for a member of the Washington Territory Legislature in some of the little counties away down the Sound the Democratic candidate was successful. But later intelligence annihilates this hope and it is ascertained that the Republican candidate is elected. Will the Herald which published a jubilant editorial on this election, please copy this item?

A commission has been appointed by Queen Victoria to ascertain what MSS [illegible] to throw light upon subjects connected with the civil ecclesiastical literary and scientific history of the country are extant in the collections of private [illegible] and in corporate and other institutions. The [illegible] of this commission will be thorough [illegible] at the same time under [illegible] restrictions and regulations as will prevent the prying into mere private manuscripts. Documents of historical value thus found are to be [illegible]. In our country too little attention is paid to preserving documents of historical interest. We rarely think of such a thing, till we suddenly want them for some special purpose, and then we discover that they are hopelessly lost.

The Springfield (Mass) Republican referring to Vice President Colfax's recent western tour, says it was in all respects a most gratifying one. Every honest man in the land will stand shoulder to shoulder with Secretary Boutwell as he works for the fulfillment of this declaration he made last week: "My aim," says he, "is to improve the credit of the country, collect the revenue, place the loan at a lower rate of interest and all without impeding the prosperity of the country."

The total number of graves of soldiers who died in defence of the American Union now recorded in the printed forms published by the Quartermaster's Department, amounts to about 193,000. There yet remains to be printed the records of about 120,000 graves, making an aggregate of 300,000 of which the names of 100,000 occupants will probably never be known.

Father Hyacinthe's doing, Napoleon's sickness and the Pantin murder have made journalism lively in Paris lately. Thus the Figaro now prints eighty five thousand copies more than it did two months ago, the Gaulois forty eight thousand copies and the Petit Journal two hundred thousand copies, so that spicy little sheet has now a daily circulation of four hundred and twenty five thousand copies.

One day recently, Governor Clayton, of Arkansas met Gen Catterson on the State-house steps at Little Rock. The Governor called the General a liar. "You're another," said the General whereupon the Governor struck him a severe blow in the temple. Catterson remarked he would as soon strike a woman as hit a one armed man besides he would not strike the Governor of the State. The parties were then separated.

Senator Wilson in a speech at the Republican Convention in the Seventh Massachusetts Congressional District, recently said: "President Grant is President of the United States, it is the best Administration, and is conducting the Government on a higher plan than any Administration since that of John Quincy Adams. Without fault it is not, mistakes it has made; but with all this it is patriotic, liberty loving, just and honest."

It is well known that it was the ambition of the late Henry J Raymond to have his son succeed to the editorial management of the Times. Young Raymond, who has just attained his majority and who desired to realize his father's wish, has already contributed several letters to the paper. Those written by him recently from Utah show the possession of journalistic genius. Since his return he has been regularly enrolled among the working force of the office, beginning where he ought, in the ranks of the reporters.

A colored man is elected supervisor of a road district in Iowa but a Copperhead Board won't give him a certificate. The colored citizen takes the case to the courts. It is pretty tough on the Constitutional Democracy but as a correspondent of the Iowa Register says, "they will have to toe the mark, and if they can't shovel dirt under a colored supervisor's direction, they will have to hire some one to shovel for them. Out here we have a holy regard for the Constitution of Iowa, and propose to stand by it, and see its commands observed."

The Walla Walla Union learns from reliable authority that there are now ten thousand head of Texas cattle on Snake river near the mouth of the Owyhee. Fundamental Elements of Agriculture

1st. All land on which clover or the grasses are grown must either have lime in them naturally or it must be artificially supplied. It matters but little whether it be supplied in the form of stone lime, oyster shell lime, or marl.

2d. All permanent improvement of lands must look to lime as its basis.

3d. Lands which have long been in culture will be benefitted by applications in the form of bone dust, guano, native phosphate of lime, composts of fish ashes or in oyster shell lime or marl if the land needs liming also.

4th. No lands can be preserved in a high state of fertility unless clover and the grasses are cultivated in the course of rotation.

5th. Mould is indispensable in every soil and a healthy supply can alone be preserved through the cultivation of clover and the grasses, the turning in of green crops or by the application of composts rich in the elements of mould.

6th. All highly concentrated animal manures are increased in value and their benefit prolonged by the admixture of plaster or pulverized charcoal.

7th. Deep plowing and subsoiling greatly improve the productive powers of a variety of soil that is not wet.

8th. All wet land should be drained.

9th. All grain crops should be harvested several days before the grain is thoroughly ripe.

10th. Clover as well as other grasses intended for [illegible] should be mown when in bloom.

11th. Sandy lands can be most effectually improved by clay. It such lands require liming, it is best done by a compost of lime and clay. In slaking lime salt brine is better than water.

12th. The [illegible] grinding of grain to be fed to stock all its a saving of at least twenty five per cent.

13th. The [illegible] of wet lands adds to their value by making them produce more and better crops by producing them earlier and by improving the health of the neighborhood.

14th. To [illegible] lime wet lands is to throw manure [illegible] away.

15th. Shallow plowing [illegible] impoverish the [illegible]

16th. By stabling and shedding stock during the winter a saving of one fourth of the food is effected. That is one fourth less food is required than if they were exposed to the inclemency of the weather.

17th. A bushel of plaster per acre sown broadcast over clover, will add from 50 to 100 per cent to its produce.

18th. The periodical application of ashes unleached tends to keep up the integrity of the soils by supplying most if not all of the inorganic substances.

19th. Thorough preparation of land is absolutely necessary to the successful and luxuriant growth of crops.

20th. Abundant crops cannot be grown upon the same land in succession unless fertilizing matter [illegible] equivalent [illegible] to those [illegible] taken away.

[Sec. 2.] All ordinances or resolutions heretofore [passed, so far] as they conflict with the provisions [of this ordinance], be and the same is hereby repealed. [Passed the] Common Council November 3, 1869.

W. S. CALDWELL,
Auditor and Clerk.

[Approved Nov.] 5, 1869.
[illegible], Mayor.

[illegible] The following proceedings were had [illegible]:

[illegible] of the Committee appointed on [illegible] to draw up and present resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the Court and Bar upon the [death of Henry] C. Coulson, presented the following:

[Resolved], That we sincerely sympathise with the relatives and friends of Henry Clay Coulson upon [the occasion] of his untimely and sudden death, and add [our testimony] to the virtues exhibited as a man, a citizen, [a member of] this Bar, and for a long time Clerk of this [Court].

[Resolved], That the event may well admonish us that [neither] competent fortune, nor the warm esteem [of all which] he possessed so large a [share, are] any security against the uncertainty of life; [and] that his intelligent and faithful administration of the duties of Clerk of this county, and his obliging [disposition] therein, endear his memory to [the community].

[Resolved], [That we] respectfully request this Court to [cause to be] [entered] on that record which bears such [honorable] testimony of his official life.

[Resolved, That] we respectfully request B. L. Norden, [Clerk] of this Court, to forward copies of these resolutions to the members of the family of the deceased.

J. J. HOFFMAN, Ch'n Com.
[illegible] Wm. Strong, R. D. Shattuck and E. [illegible].

[illegible] the request embodied in the fourth [resolution], the Court ordered that the resolutions be [spread upon the] record.

[The grand jury] was empanneled and sworn, consisting of the following named persons: J. R. Prindle, Foreman; [illegible] A. Roberts, James Powell, Thomas [illegible] Shuppard and Samuel Brown.

[illegible] Judge Upton appointed J. P. Ward and F. [illegible], and Thos J. Dryer to be crier for [the term].

[In the case of the] State of Oregon vs George Oakes was [dismissed on] motion of the Prosecuting Attorney, on the [ground that] the evidence is insufficient to convict the defendant.

[On motion] of the Prosecuting Attorney, the following [cases were] also dismissed: State vs. John Dougherty, [State] vs. A. J. Myers; State vs Wm. Bentley, and [State vs.] Wong Yock, Charles Yick, Dr. Jim and Lee [illegible].

[illegible] CALIFORNIA FARMING LANDS.—Quite a number [of Californ]ians have come into our State recently from [California] for the purpose of investing in farming lands, [and] without any exception, they express their surprise at the low value that choice lands can be purchased for here as compared with California. Lands [illegible] can be pu[rchased] here for from $5 to $10 per acre—[illegible] of improved farms in good localities—[illegible] to sold in similar localities in California at from [illegible]. Two gentlemen, only a few days ago, [arrived] and purchased a farm each, from one of our [illegible] in this city. Mr. R. T. Flint, the gentleman who purchased the large and extensive [property] formerly owned by Judge Humphrey, in [illegible] county, says that he has no doubt but [that] there are thousands of persons in different parts of [the State] who, if they had the remotest idea of the advantages [which] Oregon has in this respect, who would come [here] and make this their permanent home. Oregon today can boast of cheaper and better lands than any other [State] in the Union, besides the great advantages we possess in our mild and genial climate. To the emigrant [we] would say, come to Oregon; here you can procure any kind of home you desire, if with limited means [there] are yet plenty of Government lands to be had in [every county], and improved farms can be had at a low [figure]. The difference between California and Oregon is [simply] this: In Oregon the lands are mostly in the hands of the original settlers who are satisfied to sell a portion [of their land at reason]able rates in order to induce immigration, while [in California] they are in the hands of speculators and being held at exorbitant rates.

[THE NEW] RAILWAY.—The locomotive "J. B. Stephens," [which] was landed Monday evening, the engineer and [illegible] were yesterday engaged in putting it in running [order]. It will be in readiness to get up steam, to-[day]. The [illegible] was landed about noon yesterday. The [workmen] are at work far out beyond the machine [shop], and will probably reach Milwaukie to-night.

[MAIL] TO DAYTON.—Hereafter, in consequence [illegible], the mail from Portland to Dayton will be [carried] only once a week, leaving this city on Saturday, [according] to the terms of the contract. The additional [trip] once a week has been gratuitous on the part of [illegible].

OREGON THEATER.—Another good house last evening, though the weather was extremely inclement, doubtless keeping many from venturing out who otherwise would have attended. The drama of "Leah," with Mrs. Bates as "Leah," Mr. Bates "Joseph," Mr. Carter the "Schoolmaster" and Apostate, Mrs. Bird "Old Martha," Mrs. Carter "Rose," Mr. Barry "Peter," and the other characters by the Company, was given in a very respectable manner. Mrs. Bates' Leah is one of the best pieces of acting ever seen upon a Portland stage, not excepting even the great personations of Julia Dean Hayne. While she is correct throughout, she rises in some of the passages to the heights of real and rare genius. The curse she pronounces, a rather harsh, upon Joseph is terrible in its intensity and withering power. The audience was electrified, and from the moment of its conclusion a storm of applause broke forth which did not cease till she had appeared in front of the curtain and again retired. We heat the expression on all sides, and from the best critics, that Mrs. Bates has grown wonderfully as an actress since her engagement here of last season. Mr. Carter as the Apostate was quite effective, though in our judgment he invested the character with too much of the tragic in some of the passages where the schoolmaster is simply a hypocrite. Mr. Bates' Joseph was, in the main, creditable even to him, though we have often seen him make much more of a character less in importance to the general plot than that of Joseph. Mrs. Carter as Rose was elegant and pleasing, and quite correct, as she always is in every character. Mrs. Bird did Old Martha very creditably, and Mr. Barry was a splendid Peter. The other characters were passably well rendered. The last act was somewhat marred by a long "wait" when the Burgomaster should have entered, on strict time.

ASTORIA ITEMS.—Our Astoria correspondent, under date of Nov. 8th, writes:

The Oriflamme arrived here this forenoon at 8 o'clock, took on a small lot of oysters and some Victoria freight and passengers, waited for the Geo. S. Wright till 1 o'clock, left without connecting with her, and crossed the bar at two this afternoon.

The Tillamook schooner Champion went up the river this forenoon. She had experienced very rough weather on her voyage. She left Tillamook on Monday, the 1st November, carried away her jib and burst the mainsail in crossing the Tillamook Bar. Fortunately she got to sea safely and had her sails mended, was tumbling about outside the Columbia river Bar in a southeaster, till Friday the 5th, when she got inside all safe. Coming up abreast of Fort Stevens she had to anchor, and here she came near being blown on shore the next evening, a heavy gale having sprung up from the northeast, and her anchors not being able to hold her. By skillful management she got her anchor up and under sail all right, beating up to Astoria under jib and mainsail double close reefed, having lost nothing but a small boat.

On Saturday last it was blowing so heavily on the bay, that the steamer U. S. Grant was not able to make her regular trip to Cape Disappointment. She started and got as far as Fort Stevens, when she had to turn back again. Capt. Gray says it got "too thick" for him there. Several narrow escapes have been experienced by small sloops on the bay in the late heavy weather. With the exception of an anchor or a small boat, &c., lost, no damage has been done, however. Such weather as we have had lately gives the "navigators" on the bay a good chance to show their skillfulness in managing a boat.

Court adjourned sine die.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A young man employed in a fishery near Oak Point, named Thomas Johnson, but usually known as Thomas Griffin, a native of Plymouth, England, aged about 22 years, was almost instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his shot gun on the 7th inst. The evidence elicited upon an inquest goes to show that the deceased was pulling up the river alone in a Whitehall boat, and was found by parties who heard the report of a gun to the boat, and a cry from deceased, who was found in the boat with his hand on the muzzle of the gun, the hammer of which appeared to have caught as the gun was pulled forward, discharging the entire contents of the barrel into the right breast, just below the collar bone. When found, Johnson was still breathing, but insensible, and only lived a few minutes after receiving the shot.

BIG POTATO AND BIG YARN.—The Eugene Journal says: "We have a potato in our office raised by Mr. Frank Crow, of Siuslaw, which beats Mr. Morris Sullivan's big potato all hollow. It weighs seven pounds, and measures considerable around—we won't say how much, as there is nothing at hand that will reach around it." Well, now, if that "yarn" isn't long enough and big enough to reach around Crow's potato, there's no use hereafter in trying to spin yarns. But, seriously, gentlemen, we told the story of Mr. Sullivan's big potato for the truth, and expecting to have it believed. You may go on with your mammoth stories. We shall not attempt to trump them. We respect the commandments.

STREETS FLOODED.—Washington street was much flooded at various places last evening and the evening before, in consequence of obstructed drains. We have no doubt but other streets were in similar condition. At nearly all the street intersections, the water was running over the cross-walks, in such volume as to make it difficult for pedestrians to cross without wading. Ladies, especially, were incommoded. The drains should be cleared at once, and the drainage would be all the better if they were to be relieved of a few cart-loads of mud. There is no good sense in having streets like hog-wallows, especially, after the expenditure of so much money to improve them.

A NEW PLACE OF WORSHIP.—A meeting of the Friends of Progress, or Spiritualists of this city, was held, Monday evening, for the purpose of devising a way of procuring a place of worship of their own. After consultation it was concluded to take the new hall in Captain Gilman's brick building, at the corner of Alder and First streets. The contract for its rent was concluded, and yesterday, subscription papers were in circulation to procure the means of furnishing the room with seats, etc. When furnished, the hall will open to all parties who may want it, for public meetings, lectures, etc.

PLAZA MATINEE.—Programme for Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 10th:

1. San Francisco Fireman's March.
2. The Sultan's Polka.
3. Aria from Sonnambula—Bellini.
4. Quadrille from Trovatore—Verdi.
5. Overture from the Opera Tancredi—Rossini.
6. List to the Convent Bells.
7. Gallop: Champagne Charlie.
8. 23d Infantry March.

DEDICATION.—The new Synagogue and school room on Sixth street, now about completed, will be formally dedicated on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 18th, the service to be conducted by Rev. Dr. Eckman. The ceremonies will be such as are usually observed by the Hebrews, on occasions of similar sort. The services will begin at 2 o'clock P. M. Preparations, on a scale corresponding to the importance of the event, are being made by a select committee of the congregation.

MORE SUCCESSFUL COMPETITION.—The Eugene Journal mentions another case where a Caucasian Democrat proved successful in competition with a Chinaman. He borrowed ten dollars of the Chinaman and refused to pay him, thus proving conclusively that even a Democratic Caucasian can get the best of a Mongolian when he tries. Blood will tell. John says of his creditor that, when he sees him on the street, "he cross over; me cross over, he come all the same back."

PERHAPS SO.—Geo. Francis Train has written a letter to the Commercial, and dubbed himself a "man of destiny." A friend at our elbow, reading the letter, says "Train is right—he is a predestinated d—d fool." This is severe and rather too vigorously stated. Train is not a fool, but he may have a destiny. Men sometimes do have that sort of thing. Train's will take him to a lunatic asylum rather than to the White House.

WEST SIDE RAILROAD.—We learn that the grading on the West Side Railroad is now complete for twenty miles, except that there are a few places to clear up yet, along the section graded last year—in all, not more than a quarter of a mile. The camp of the grading force was moved yesterday, up toward the Summit, and as the weather may permit, these little places of unfinished work will be done.

REPORTED ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING.—We hear a report that on Monday a man named Tom Martin accidentally shot and killed himself at some point on the Columbia river, but we are without particulars and inclined to the belief that the report refers to the accidental shooting of a man named Johnson, near Oak Point, the particulars of which we give elsewhere.

SEA SHELLS THREE HUNDRED FEET ABOVE THE SEA.—Mr. A. S. Gross who was, a part of last week, at Astoria, exhibits a fossil shell which he found encased in stone, at the height of three hundred feet above the level of the sea, on the mountain back of Astoria. It is not uncommon to find marine shells on the mountain top in that neighborhood.

AS GOOD AS A BULL.—W. L. Adams is lecturing in Boston on Oregon. The News and Tribune, commenting upon the lecturer, says: "his statements were an exaggeration of facts, but a truthful description of a country yet unexplored and unknown save by a few." Exactly. That puts us in mind of something we can't think of.

THE STEAMER AJAX.—This steamer sailed on Monday instead of Saturday, as at first announced, and will be due Thursday evening.

FESTIVAL.—Remember the fair and festival this evening at the Washington Guard's Armory, for the benefit of St. Helens Hall.

THE RAILROAD IRON continues to arrive by hundreds of tons. The Webfoot having a locomotive on board is on her way to our city, and everything to facilitate the building of the great Railroad is progressing as well, as those Nonpareil Beaver Suits and those extra Scotch Chinchilla "Roundabouts" are selling at KOHN & FISHEL'S, whose Stock of CLOTHING and GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS is the handsomest ever imported to Oregon, and their principle of selling with SMALL PROFITS proves a benefit to the public as well as to themselves. Their Stock of DRY GOODS is positively offered at COST.

G. VENARD,
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1831.
STEAM POWER, NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always [illegible] for the excellent quality of his Coffee, [illegible] nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily [increases]. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which [illegible] here, and in the markets of the [illegible], at [relatively] higher price, excites the cupidity of some [illegible], and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior goods for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and put on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

The Throes of Science

This narrative of what happened to a society of scientifics in California is good as poetry and better as satire. The work is too delicate and sharp for any other pen than that of F. Bret Harte.

I reside at Table Mountain, and my name is Truthful James,
I am not up to small deceit or any sinful games,
And I'll tell in simple language what I know about the row
That broke up our society upon the Stanislaus.

But first I would remark that it's not a proper plan
For any scientific gent to whale his fellow man,
And if a member don't agree with his peculiar whim,
To lay for that same member for to "put a head" on him.

Now nothing could be finer or more beautiful to see,
Than the first six months' proceedings of that same society;
Till Brown of Calaveras brought a lot of fossil bones,
That he found within the tunnel near the tenement of Jones.

Then Brown he read a paper and he reconstructed there
From those same bones, an animal that was extremely rare;
And Jones then asked the Chair for a suspension of the rules,
'Till he could prove that those same bones were one of his lost mules.

Then Brown he smil d a bitter smile, and said his greatest fault
Was that he had been trespassing on Jones' family vault;
He was the most sarcastic man, this quiet Mr. Brown,
And on several occasions he had cleaned out the town.

Now I hold it is not decent for a scientific gent
To say another is an ass—at least to all intent;
Nor should the individual who happens to be meant,
Reply by heaving rocks at him to any great extent.

Then Abner Dean of Angel's raised a point of order, when
A chunk of old red sandstone took him in the abdomen;
And he smiled a sort of sickly smile, and curled up on the floor,
And the subsequent proceedings interested him no more.

Then in less time than I write it every member did engage
In a warfare with the remnants of a paleozoic age,
And the way they heaved those fossils in their anger, was a sin,
And the skull of an old monarch caved the head of Thompson in.

And this is all I have to say of these improper games,
For I live at Table Mountain, and my name is Truthful James;
And I've told in simple language what I know about the row
That broke up our society upon the Stanislaus.

Cultivation of the Tea Plant in Fauchau.

The common beverage of Chinese is a weak decoction of black tea. According to common fame, they never use green tea. At Fauchau, the use of cold water as a drink is regarded by the natives as decidedly unhealthy, and most would prefer to thirst a long time rather than drink it, though they might venture to rinse their mouth or wet their lips with water. A drink of hot or warm water would be greatly preferred to a drink of cold water. The poorest of the poor must have their tea, regarding it not so much a luxury as a necessary. They never use milk nor sugar, but always take it clear, and, if convenient, as hot as they can drink it. They prepare it, not by steeping, but by pouring boiling water, or water which has boiled, upon the tea, letting it stand a few minutes, usually covered over. It is considered essential, on receiving a call from a friend or stranger, to offer him some hot tea as soon after he enters as possible, and usually he is also invited to smoke a whiff of tobacco. Unless the tea should be forthcoming, the host would be regarded as destitute of good manners, and unaccustomed to the usages of polite society.

In May, 1861, in company with an American friend, a visit was made to some tea plantations situated twelve or fifteen miles to the north of Fauchau, on the Piling Hills. The plantations were comparatively of recent growth, commenced mostly since this point became a market for black teas, for exportation to foreign countries. The tea produced is comparatively of little importance as far as amount is concerned, though the prospect is fair that the production will be largely increased as fast as time and the slender capital of the people will admit. There is a large tract of the hilly country now uncultivated, well adapted, we were informed, to the cultivation of the tea-shrub.

The tea-shrub resembles in some respects the low species of whortleberry, being allowed to grow usually only about a foot and a half high. Some compare the tea shrub to the currant-bush; but the currant grows too high and is too bushy to justify the comparison, according to our observation. The tea-shrub would grow much higher than what we saw if allowed to do so. It was kept low by picking the higher leaves and breaking off the highest branches. A high shrub would be in danger of damage from the heavy storms of wind, which are quite common amid the hills, and besides, the leaves would not be as valuable as the leaves of a small shrub.

The tea seeds should be planted in the tenth Chinese month (corresponding to November,) and the plants are then ready for transplanting by the following Autumn. They are transplanted from three to five together, in rows from three to five feet apart each way, in much the same manner as Indian corn is planted in America. In about four years the plants are large enough to spare some of the leaves without serious detriment. The plantations are not manured, but are kept free from weeds. The plant blossoms about the tenth month, producing a white flower, in appearance and size much like the flower of the orange. The seeds form in a pod, each pod containing three tea-seeds, about as large as a small bean.

We were informed that only two kinds of tea, Congo and Oolong, were usually made from these tea plantations, differing from each other only in consequence of being manufactured in different ways. We queried closely and repeatedly our informants, the men engaged in picking and preparing the leaves, in regard to the processes of preparing these varieties. We could not perceive that they were deceiving us, nor could we see any reason or cause why they should attempt to deceive. Of course, we could not in one day, and that a cloudy and misty day see all the processes described ourselves, and gather from our personal observation all the facts mentioned. The leaves of a medium size are carefully plucked, principally by women and children. The largest leaves are usually left on the shrub in order to catch the dew. If all were picked at once there would be danger of killing or greatly injuring the shrub. A thrifty clump will annually furnish from three to five ounces of leaves, and a smart picker can gather in a day eight or ten pounds of green leaves. There are three seasons for picking the leaves, viz: in the third, fifth and eighth Chinese months, when each shrub is picked over, at intervals of ten or fifteen days, two or three times or more, according to its thriftiness and the demand in market for the dried leaf. If there is no prospect of selling the tea at a profit the leaf is not picked. A pound of green leaves makes only about three or four ounces of tea. The first picking is best and commands the highest price.

The following, we were informed, is the method of preparing Congo:

1. The leaves are exposed in the sun or in an airy place. The object of this is not to dry them, but only to wilt them slowly and thoroughly.

2. A quantity of the leaves thus wilted are put into a shallow vessel, usually made of the splints of the bamboo, and trodden down together for a considerable time, until all the fibers and stems of the leaves are broken. The object is simply to break the stiff parts or fibers. Men, barefooted, are employed to do this work, because the Chinese do not appear to have found out a more convenient, expeditious, and effective method of attaining the object in view. It does not seem to them a filthy and objectionable operation.

3. These leave are than rolled in a particular manner by the hands of the operator. The object is solely to cause them to take a round or spiral form. If not rolled in this way, they would remain flat, a shape not adapted to the foreign market. While lying on the vessel, the hands, spread out, are passed around for some time in a circular manner, parallel to the bottom of the vessel, lightly touching the leaves.

4. They are now placed in a heap to heat for half an hour or longer, until they become of a reddish appearance.

5. The leaves are then spread out in the sun, or in a light and airy place, and left to dry. They must be thoroughly dried, else they would mold, and become unfit for the foreign market.

6. The leaf is next sold to the agents of foreigners or to native dealers, who take it away and expend a great deal of labor upon it before it is shipped to foreign countries. It is sifted on coarse sieves and picked over several times, in order to separate the different qualities, to remove the stems, the large or flat leaves, etc. The large leaves are put by themselves, and the small by themselves. It is dried several times over slow fires in iron pans, in order to prevent its spoiling through moisture, according to circumstances, as the weather, length of time on hand, etc., seem to require.

The process of preparing Oolong tea differs in some particulars from the method of preparing Congo. The fresh leaves are dried for a short time only, not until they are wilted, but only until all the dew or water, or external dampness is gone.

Instead of being dried in the sun, they are dried in an iron vessel over a small, steady fire. They are kept in motion by the hand to prevent any scorching, crisping or burning. They are not perfectly, but only about half dried.

They are trodden by barefooted men, rolled with the hand, and dried in the sun or air, and afterward sifted, sorted, and dried in iron pans, as the leaf for making Congo was served.

In the suburbs of Fauchau there are many establishments where large numbers of young men, women and children are industriously employed during the tea season in sifting and sorting the leave. Women and children earn from three to six cents per day, according to their skill and celerity, they boarding themselves, while the young men receive from five to eight cents besides their board, per day.

These facts, and others, which might be added, show that tea can never be cultivated in Western countries to advantage. The high rate of wages in the United States, even if it would grow in the southern part of the country, would forbid the extensive and profitable cultivation of the tea shrub. The same amount of capital, industry and labor employed in any of the common trades and occupations in that land, would be far more lucrative. Tea could not be afforded, if raised in America, at less than four or five times the cost per pound at which it can be afforded obtained from China.—Social Life of the Chinese.

Transplanting in Autumn.

The question is often asked, what is the best time in autumn to set out trees? Can we do it while the leaves are yet green, or wait till near winter, after they have fallen? The answer may be: Do it whenever the work can be well done, and when the soil is in proper condition as to dryness for working properly. If done early, the leaves must be all carefully stripped off, to prevent the rapid evaporation of moisture. We have known trees to have been entirely spoiled in a few hours by wilting, from carelessness in not removing the leaves when taken in.

In the Northern States, nurserymen usually commence digging by the first of October. Some trees have entirely ceased growing by this time, including generally cherries, plums and standard pears. If the leaves are removed, they may now be taken and transplanted, as well as at any time in autumn or the following spring. Others have not fully completed the ripening of the young wood, which is effected through the assistance of the leaves. The only harm done in taking them up at this time is in giving unmatured shoots on some parts of the trees, instead of those well ripened and hardened: and the result will be that some of the tips may be nipped by the frosts of winter, or they will not start in spring with so much certainty of vigor. Hardy kinds, such as the apple, will not be much injured in this way; and the peach, although tender, should be shortened back in spring in any case.

It will be safe, therefore, with a few exceptions, to take up trees any time after the first of October, care being taken to do the work well, as already indicated.

The soil should be in such condition as to be easily made fine and mellow, so that it may be sifted in perfectly among the roots without having interstices. Staking against wind, or effecting the same purpose by a small mound of earth about the stem, should not be omitted.

We have never succeeded better than by taking up trees in mid-autumn, heeling them in by burying the roots and half the stems for wintering, and setting out only in the spring. They however, do quite as well as set out in autumn, provided they are hardy sorts, and the site is not a windy one. In heeling in for winter, it is absolutely essential to fill in all the interstices among the roots very compactly with the fine earth. Many trees are needlessly lost by carelessness in this particular. The roots are injured by dryness or moldiness, and the mice find easy access among the cavities. To exclude mice effectually the heeling ground should be clean, and a smooth mound of earth raised on all sides about the tree.

A Rural Lesson in Rhetoric.—Brown was invited to visit a town in the extreme rural districts for the purpose of lecturing the people on temperance. He arrived at his destination late in the evening, and was invited to the cottage of a farmer to partake of supper previous to the display of his eloquence. The farmer had two sons, twenty to twenty-five years of age, and to them a temperance lecturer appeared something more than an ordinary man. Brown had great difficulty in drawing them into conversation, but at length the ice was broken, and the following colloquy was the result:

"I suppose you've both affixed your names to the pledge long ago?" queried our friend.

"Which?"

"I suppose you are both temperance men, and have pledged yourselves to abstain from the use of everything that intoxicates?"

"The which, stranger?"

"You do not get the idea clearly. I was expressing the hope that you do not indulge in intoxicating beverages."

"Eh?"

"That you do no indulge in the inebriating cup."

"Sir?"

"Do either of you drink liquor? That's what I am trying to get at."

"Waal, stranger!" exclaimed the eldest. "I didn't know but ye was a-talkin' French jabber. Why didn't ye ax the thing right eout? Sam and me don't drink no liquor to speak on, 'cept hayin and harvist, an then we drink right smart. So does fayther and everybody 'round here. If ye talk French stuff in yer lecture, stranger, 'twont du much good, I tell ye, for nobody won't know a word what yer means in this yer neck o' timber, sartin and sure."

Brown declares this to be the best lesson in rhetoric he ever received, and he made an unusual effort to adapt his words to the comprehension of his hearers in that "neck o' timber." Other speakers may profit by the hint.

Useful.—About two o'clock on a December night in Illinois, when the thermometer stood in the neighborhood of zero, a party of wags hailed a farm house in a very boisterous manner. The farmer sprang out of his bed, drew on a few articles of clothing and ran out to see what was wanted when the following interesting dialogue occurred:

"Have you any hay, Mr. ——?"

"Plenty of it, sir."

"Have you plenty of corn?"

"Yes."

"Any oats?"

"Yes."

"Any eggs?"

"Yes."

"Any butter?"

"Yes."

"Plenty of meats and bread-stuffs?"

"Yes."

"Well, we are glad to hear of it, for they are useful things in a family."

The party then drove off, leaving the farmer to his reflections.

Amiable mother: "Here, Tommy, is some nice castor oil, with orange peel in it."

Amiable doctor: "Now remember, don't give it all to Tommy, leave some for me."

Tommy, who has been there before: "Doctor's a nice man, ma; give it all to doctor."

An editor of a religious paper in Chicago, who wrote an article on "Fidelity in Children," was horrified to see it in print "Deviltry in Children." Probably no one will believe this, as they never heard of a religious paper in Chicago.

HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER

Has purchased the right for this County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. B. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongue to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

BALSAMIC COMPOUND

THE GRAND DESIDERATUM OF THE AGE.

Among the most painful and trying diseases to which the human frame is liable, are those generated by affections of the organs of [illegible] resulting either from the contaminating influence of [illegible] passion, or [illegible] and infirmity. Nothing tends more to impair, debilitate, undermine the very foundation of life than neglect, or improper treatment of such [illegible]

In the former case, the malady becomes [illegible] often incurable, and in the latter, the [illegible] weakened, and in many cases destroyed by the use of powerful and deleterious medicines.

The BALSAMIC COMPOUND, after a course of careful experience, is now confidently submitted [illegible] to be an infallible and safe specific for those [illegible] and widely spread diseases above referred to, and complaints of the Urinary and Genital Organs.

As a Preventive of those deplorable [illegible] often the result of indiscretion, the Balsamic [illegible] will be unfailing in its efficacy. It [illegible] advantages of being taken without any unpleasant [illegible] tion in diet, and as it is a purely vegetable [illegible] may in all cases be used with perfect safety.

Horrible Diseases!

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering on account of the effects of secret indulgence, absorbed into the system? Look at their [illegible] ted and disfigured faces and their broken constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid [illegible] sandwich [illegible] until death closes the scene. [illegible] guardians, friends, attend to those who are any of those horrible life-destroying [illegible] they are cured for and cured before it be [illegible] them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, ask [illegible] made private disease his special study [illegible] is certain to cure the most inveterate cases [illegible] cury or any injurious drugs. It is important who are afflicted, or to those who are [illegible] welfare of their friends, to be careful of the [illegible] tended doctors who infest all cities [illegible] in coming all [illegible] a few days, [illegible] public by using the names of [illegible] Europe and other places. Be therefore [illegible] strict inquiry, or you may fall into the [illegible] charlatans.

[illegible] Weakness.

[illegible] solitary vice, or depraved [illegible] by the youth of both sexes to a [illegible] producing, with [illegible] certainty, the [illegible] of morbid symptoms, [illegible] local measures, viz: Sallow countenance, [illegible] the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the [illegible] the rustling of leaves and rattling of [illegible] about the loins, [illegible] of the limbs, [illegible] blunted intellect, loss of confidence [illegible] [illegible] strangers, a dislike to form [illegible] a disposition to shun society, loss of [illegible] flushed, pimples and various [illegible] furred tongue, fetid [illegible] sweats, monomania and frequently [illegible] not obtained, should apply [illegible] or by letter, and have a cure [illegible] entire mode of [illegible] effecting a quick and radical cure. DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give [illegible] patient a written instrument, binding [illegible] radical and permanent cure, or [illegible]

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED [illegible] by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, [illegible] [illegible] length of time the [illegible] medicines promptly forwarded, free [illegible] curiosity, to any part of the country, with [illegible] directions for use, for Ten Dollars, [illegible] ter of through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unwary.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks [illegible] who, with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the [illegible] Some of the self-styled doctors, [illegible] found in the daily and weekly newspapers of [illegible] cisco and other places, are tradesmen, and [illegible] lazy to work at their trades. Some are [illegible] makers, newspaper carriers, intelligence [illegible] etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory [illegible] will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but [illegible] find their former occupations in it. Look [illegible] tory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to [illegible] then is to make enquiry—it will cost you [illegible] may save you many regrets; for, as advertising [illegible] cians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, [illegible] safety in trusting any of them until you know [illegible] what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deem it [illegible] exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, printed [illegible] letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy [illegible] call at his office of his ability to treat [illegible] proposes to cure.
